Instructors:

Overview: International Association of Law Enforcement Firearms Instructors (IALEFI) - Master Instructor Development Course

The IALEFI Master Instructor Development Program (MIDP) was designed to provide continuing education to individuals certified as firearms instructors. Foundation courses of the MIDP include instructor level training on the three most commonly utilized law enforcement weapon systems--------handgun, rifle and shotgun.

Different proven methodologies will be used to enhance the teaching skills of the police firearms instructor. Hands-on skills will progress from the basics to the more complex and all participants regardless of skill level will find themselves challenged. Practical exercise will put an emphasis on both practical marksmanship and operational skills.

Throughout the 3 day program, participants will be shown a number of drills designed to improve the performance of both proficient and problem shooters. The information presented will prove especially useful in creating a positive training experience that will ultimately result in greater officer safety.

Topics covered:
* range safety
* review of shooting fundamentals/positions
* operational skills
* basic tactics such as movement, use of cover, light management, etc.
* shooter remediation
* adult learning concepts
* coaching strategies
* course design

The Handgun: This will be a handgun course aimed at building the Instructional skills of the police firearms instructor. We will start with a review and discussion of the basics, including: stance, grip, sight, alignment, trigger control, follow through, holster placement, draw, presentation and scanning. Students will then be shown a series of drills and tools designed to improve problem shooters and enhance the skills of all their shooters.

The Rifle: The rifle / carbine portion of the Master Instructor Development Course is an 8-hour class. In the first half of the class emphasis will be placed on individual skill enhancement. Topics will include balancing speed and accuracy, multiple target engagements, dynamic moving and shooting, and bi-lateral shooting. In the second half of the course, the emphasis will be on instructor development for creating and conducting advance tactical multi-person live fire drills for the rifle / carbine operators. Students will participate in the drills as both a "student" and as an "instructor".

Firearms

Class Title: IALEFI Master Instructor Development Course

The Shotgun: Despite its tremendous utility value, the shotgun remains an underutilized and misunderstood tool. Many of the negative attitudes relative to the shotgun stem from improper training, and as a result officers never develop confidence in this particular weapon system. This block of instruction will explore alternate instructional techniques to make training with the shotgun a positive rather than negative experience

Prerequisites: Current law enforcement firearms instructor

Registration: Register at: https://www.ialefi.com/

Cost: $795.00

Instructors: Ken Harmon and other IPTM instructors

Overview: Pedestrian and bicycle crashes are one of the most frequent types of injurious crashes in urban areas. Because of their unique nature, special techniques are required to investigate and reconstruct these incidents.

This course addresses the special dynamics involved in pedestrian and bicycle traffic crashes. From reaction times to victim injury analysis to environmental factors, you'll learn to recognize and interpret the evidence and correlate it with the collision sequence.
In addition to classroom instruction, practical exercises and staged crash situations will be used to give you "hands-on" experience.

Topics include:
* Pedestrian crash problems
* Pedestrian impact dynamics
* Types of data: objective, subjective and performance
* Collection of data
* Pedestrian conspicuity
* Reaction time/human factors
* Reconstruction techniques
* Bicycle collision analysis
* Hit and run investigation techniques

Cost: $695.00

Instructors:

Overview: *Provides real-world and up-to-date tactical application as it relates to everyday use of less lethal munitions.
*Addresses liability issues and the potential issues facing departments today in implementing and using less lethal munitions.
*Discovering the proper application of all categories of less lethal from impact, chemical munitions, OC and Flash-bangs.
Review the latest BATF rules and regulations for ordering, storage and accountability of destructive devices (Flash-bangs and 40MM Launchers)

The 4 Day ICP course presents an understanding of some of the world's leading less lethal munitions. Comes with a 4 year certification. This is the longest-standing certification available in the industry today.

*For Flashbangs, you cannot order destructive devices/NFDD/LSDD from any manufacturer unless you have a current training certification; the ATF requires an active certification for purchasing destructive devices.

Invest in training for your personnel for better liability protection practices for you and your agency by having the right personnel trained for proper application of less lethal products in impact, chemical munitions, OC and Flash-bangs.

Instructors:

Overview: About the Class: Street Survival originated in 1980 and was designed to train officers how to survive a gunfight. As law enforcement evolved, so too has the Street Survival seminar. Our current focus is educating today's officer in the statistical realities of surviving the "24/7" aspect of a career in Law Enforcement by addressing both on and off-duty challenges. The seminar is highly dynamic and presented by nationally recognized veteran law enforcement officers and trainers. The course analyzes the most current videos of live law enforcement related incidents, as well as classic cases in order to sharpen the skills to be successful during street confrontations. Instructors examine case law and scientific data regarding stress management and human performance science as it pertains to use of force.

Instructors: Brian Willis

Overview: What is it that allows some men and women to remain calm, focused, in control and confident, draw on their training and preparation, and perform heroically in the middle of tense, uncertain and rapidly evolving events? Why is it that when some men and women, when faced with seemingly insurmountable obstacles and challenges have the ability to rise above and succeed despite the magnitude of those challenges? What is it about the way these men and women, these heroes, think, act, train, prepare and respond that allows them to perform at the highest levels? The Heroes Path to Excellence in Law Enforcement will explore these very questions and provide simple, proven strategies that every law enforcement professional can apply in his or her own life to guide them on the heroes path to personal and professional excellence. This engaging and inspiring seminar will build on three main themes:

1. Life's Most Powerful Question - What's Important Now?

2. "A hero is an ordinary individual who finds the strength to persevere and endure in spite of overwhelming obstacles." Christopher Reeves'

3. Excellence in a Choice

The stories of law enforcement professionals, military personnel and civilians, ordinary men and women, who when faced with violent attacks, serious injuries, health issues and life's many other challenges, persevered, endured and found a way to be victorious will be examined throughout the day. The lessons learned from these 'heroes' will come to life through their stories.

Strategies covered during the day include:
* W.I.N. - Life's Most Powerful Question

* Embrace the Suck and Find the Good

* The Power of Commitment:

o Pursuit of Personal Excellence

o Training

Class Title: The Heroes Path to Excellence

o Learning

o Winning

o Brother and Sister Officers

o Family

* Dealing with Change

* Understanding there is more to the Warrior Spirit than War

* Focus on what you control

* A new definition of Failure

* Leadership is not about rank, position or title

This seminar may just change the way you think, the way you train and the way you live.

Instructor: Brian Willis

Brian Willis is recognized throughout North America as a thought leader, catalyst for change in law enforcement and a man with many questions. He is the founder of the innovative training company Winning Mind Training, a company committed to help the men and women of law enforcement Embrace the Suck, focus on what's Important Now and Dare to Be Great. Brian served as a full time police officer for 25 years and has over 26 years of law enforcement training experience. He is a recipient of the Law Officer Trainer of the Year award.

Hours: 0800-1600

Where: Beaverton Police Department, 4755 SW Griffith Dr. Beaverton, OR 97005 second floor Training Classroo

Cost: $249.00

Instructors: Chad Sullivan

Overview: Officers should be able to communicate with everyone they serve. Street Cop Spanish is an award-winning course developed by cops for cops. This course gives officers the tools to communicate, control, identify, and most importantly be safe when encountering a Spanish speaking subject. Unlike other Spanish courses, Street Cop Spanish does not claim to make officers fluent in Spanish in just a few days. Instead a practical and applicable course of study and materials help officers communicate with Spanish-speaking subjects upon completion of the course.

Officer Sullivan has a BA in Criminal Justice/ Spanish from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Chad is a 20 year law enforcement veteran with the Janesville Police Department in Wisconsin. He is a certified law enforcement instructor in the state of Wisconsin and is currently at the rank of Police Specialist. Officer Sullivan has been the Spanish translator for the Janesville Police Department for over 20 years. Officer Sullivan has worked Patrol, Special Operations, Crime Prevention, and Court Services during his law enforcement career. Officer Sullivan has taken years of street experience and developed a Spanish curriculum, along with training aids, that are practical and easy for officers to use with no prior Spanish experience.

Street Cop Spanish seminars have received rave reviews from law enforcement personnel across the country.

Information: Your investment to participate in this powerful seminar will also give you 8 hours of required Leadership hours for DPSST Certification

Class Title: Dare To Be Great: The Leadership Challenge

Target Audience: Police- Sergeants and above and those wanting to promote

Sponsoring Agency: Beaverton Police Department

When: 5/16/2017

Registration Deadline:

Contact: ; ;

Hours: 0800-1600

Where: Beaverton Police Department, 4755 SW Griffith Dr. Beaverton, OR 97005 second floor Training Classroo

Cost: $127.00

Instructors: Brian Willis

Overview: Dare to Be Great is a philosophy focused on growing the courage to embrace excellence, fight mediocrity, say no to the status quo, stop chasing best practices and strive for greatness in your life, your leadership and your organization. Now, more than ever, we needs courageous leaders who are committed to the pursuit of excellence in their own lives and are committed to inspiring greatness in the men and women they serve in their organizations. Greatness, like leadership, is a choice and a process. It takes time, it takes work and it takes commitment. The benefits however, are significant and are worth the time and effort. This engaging, interactive and reflective workshop is designed for anyone who serves in a leadership, supervisory or management position in their organization.

Dare to be Great builds on two foundational questions and three rules, which serve as a guide for making courageous, ethical decisions and form the foundation for a culture of leadership in your organization. Additional questions will challenge you to reflect on:

Why you chose to pursue a leadership role in your organization?

* What influences your leadership style?
* What is it like to be led by you?
* How do you measure your success as a leader?
* Is leadership a course, or a culture in your organization?
* What are you ignoring? What are you condoning?

The emphasis in the workshop is to move away from unproductive questions such as, "Who is to blame for this?" and shift to growth questions such as:

* What piece of this do I own?
* What did I, as a leader, learn from this experience?
* How can I, as a leader, and we as an organization grow from this experience?

While you will leave with strategies and tools to help you be a better leader, the goal of the workshop is for you to walk away with more questions than answers. Those questions will inspire and guide you on your journey be the leader your family, your personnel, your organization, your community and your profession need you to be, and deserve you to be.

Overview: The Oregon Drug Evaluation & Classification Program has received national acclaim for its success in identifying the drug-impaired driver. Officers trained as Drug Recognition Experts (DREs) are frequently called upon to differentiate between drug influence and medical and/or mental disorders. The certified DRE is a critical tool in combating the adverse impact of drug and alcohol impaired driving in our communities.

DRE School is extremely demanding. To receive certification as a DRE, three phases of training must be completed. The following summarizes each phase:

ACADEMIC TRAINING (Phase I & II): This phase is conducted over nine days (72 hours). It includes courses in physiology, vital signs, standardized field sobriety testing (SFST), and extensive material on each of the seven categories of the drugs of abuse. The training includes three written examinations, an SFST proficiency examination and five written quizzes. Students must achieve a minimum of 80% on each examination, and must demonstrate proficiency in administering SFSTs.

CERTIFICATION PHASE (Phase III): After successfully completing the academic portion, the students must complete the certification phase. Certification Training is tentatively scheduled within May 16th-27th in Portland, OR. The class will be split in half and each group will be required to attend a five day training week, within these dates. This is an additional five days of training after phase 1 & 2. At this time, the above certification dates are the only dates available in Oregon for 2017. With the recommendation of the DRE State Coordinator, out of state certification training is an option, but will be at the expense of the student's agency. It is the student's responsibility to attend and complete the certification requirements within six months following DRE School. The requirements include: conducting a minimum of 12 drug influence evaluations while under the supervision of a DRE instructor; identifying subjects under the influence, and attaining a 80% toxicological confirmation rate. Written reports will be submitted to the DRE instructor observing the evaluation for review and approval. In addition, the student must maintain an accurate progress certification log, DRE rolling log and submit a curriculum vitae. Lastly, the student must pass a comprehensive final knowledge examination, and obtain the written endorsement from two certified DRE instructors and the DRE State Coordinator before obtaining certification and IACP credentials.

The International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) and the Oregon DECP Policies and Procedures are the regulating body for Oregon's DRE Program. Certification and credentials are valid for two years. In order to maintain certification, DRE's must conduct a minimum of four evaluations (one observed in front of an instructor) every two years, submit an updated rolling log and curriculum vitae, and attend a minimum of 8-hours of recertification training.

To be considered for DRE training, the applicant must meet the following criteria:

*Must have a minimum of two years of law enforcement service.
*Must be off probation with your agency. (exception for recent lateral transfers)
*Must be working in patrol.
*Must be SFST, D.I.D. (Drugs That Impair Driving) and Intoxilyzer 8000 certified.
*A reasonable background and experience conducting DUII investigations.
*A written recommendation from your local prosecutor.
*Written recommendations from two local DREs.
*Submit a minimum of two actual DUII arrest reports for review.

Gangs

4/17-4/18/2017

Class Title: Patrol Response to Outlaw Motorcycle Gangs

Target Audience: Law enforcement personnel

Sponsoring Agency: Salem Police Department

When: 4/17-4/18/2017

Registration Deadline:

Contact: (local) Ofc. Brian Montoya, Salem PD; 503-588-6212;

Hours: 0800-1700

Where: Chemeketa Brooks Regional Training Center Rooms 105/106, 4910 Brooklake Rd NE, Salem OR

Cost: $225.00

Instructors: Steve Cook

Overview: A two-day (16 hour) training program designed for patrol officers, investigators and supervisors who may encounter members and associates of outlaw motorcycle gangs during their day to day duties. The course curriculum includes the origin and history of outlaw motorcycle gangs, identification of patches and tattoos, organizational structure and recruiting process, mentality of members, biker violence, a breakdown of the Big 4 outlaw motorcycle gangs and much more.

Officers will receive critical training in all aspects of dealing with outlaw motorcycle gang members and their associates including legal and ethical considerations that should be taken into account during contacts. In past years law enforcement agencies in the United States have paid out thousands of dollars to members of outlaw motorcycle gangs from incidents involving uniformed patrol officers and investigators who were trying to deal with gang problems in their communities. Officers will receive special training on how to protect themselves and their agencies from frivolous lawsuits from these criminal organizations and still be able to do deal with these individuals effectively.

Instructor: Steve Cook- Steve is a Detective with a Police Department in the Kansas City Metropolitan area. Steve has been a police officer for 23 years, with over six years' experience in a multi-agency drug task force. Steve has completed assignments with the DEA Clandestine Laboratory Enforcement Team as well as participating on a FBI Violent Crime/Gang Task Force. Steve has worked numerous intelligence operations all over the United States involving outlaw motorcycle gangs and was the case agent and secondary undercover in an attempted infiltration of a Bandidos support club. During that operation Steve acted as a webmaster for the club and had the opportunity to act in an undercover capacity with members of several different outlaw motorcycle gangs including the Outlaws.

Hours: 0800-1700

Where: Brooks Regional Training Center - 4910 Brooklake Rd NE, Brooks, Or 97305

Cost: $795.00

Instructors: Ken Harmon and Greg Gravesen

Overview: This course is designed for experienced traffic crash investigators who have a good working knowledge of the techniques and applications of formulas taught in basic crash investigation courses and who wish to build upon that foundation with more advanced mathematical formulas used to analyze motorcycle crashes.

Various field tests will be conducted showing you a variety of motorcycle skids, accelerations and slide-to-stop drag factors. You will learn how to photograph skids and examine the subsequent effects that skids have on the tires and surfaces. Through these tests, you will gain valuable first-hand experience that can be beneficial in court proceedings.

You will be given a manual of applicable information to use as a motorcycle reference book.

Topics include:
* Analyzing and interpreting the motorcycle crash scene
* Determining acceleration and deceleration characteristics of the motorcycle
* Analyzing and interpreting modes of instability and handling characteristics in motorcycles
* Interpreting the operator factor
* Reviewing motorcycle tires, helmets and other equipment
* Using a practical application of formulas (projects)

Prerequisites: You must have completed, at a minimum, IPTM's At-Scene Traffic Crash/Traffic Homicide Investigation course or its equivalent.

Instructors: APCO Instructor

Overview: Active shooter incidents and their response pose several unique concerns for all facets of public safety including public safety communications. There are a multitude of issues that make responding to an active shooter more difficult than other armed subject calls or violent in-progress incidents. These types of incidents historically have garnered extensive media coverage and public scrutiny and have become a pertinent threat to public safety. As with any other type of emergency situation, the Telecommunicator plays a vital role in the response to active shooter incidents. As the providers of communications capabilities and responder safety, Telecommunicators should be aware of the unique challenges posed by active shooter incidents and be prepared to address them well in advance.

This course helps educate Telecommunicators about the many intricate issues and challenges posed by active shooter incidents and their response and the role the Telecommunicator plays in each. Topics include: *Phases of an Active Shooter Incident, *Active Shooter Incidents vs School Shootings, *Law Enforcement, Fire Service, and EMS Roles in Active Shooter Incidents, *Response and Secondary Dangers, *The Role of the Telecommunicator in an Active Shooter Incident, *Interaction with the Media, *Dealing with the Aftermath of an Active Shooter Incident.

Overview: www.childabusesummit.com

The Child Abuse and Family Violence Summit is a three-and-a-half day, multi-disciplinary conference for professionals working in the areas of investigations, interviewing, assessment, prosecution, and treatment of child abuse, neglect and domestic violence.

The Summit is hosted by the Clackamas County Sheriff's Office Child Abuse Team and the Domestic Violence Enhanced Response Team (DVERT). The Summit's goal is to educate professionals on the complex issues associated with child abuse and family violence, to broaden each professional's knowledge base in multiple areas, and to increase understanding of the other agencies' roles and responsibilities.

Our theme, The Power of One in Collaboration with Others, continues throughout the Summit as we learn new ways to work together to protect and make each child safe in our communities.

Overview: This course provides a forum to discuss strategic and executive-level issues related to all-hazard disaster preparedness, to share proven strategies and best practices, and to enhance coordination among officials responsible for emergency response and recovery from a disaster. This workshop integrates a multimedia scenario and vignettes that highlight key issues and facilitates executive-level discussion of the United States' National Strategy for Homeland Security. Additionally, the forum provides an opportunity to apply lessons learned from past local and national all-hazards disasters.

This course includes seven distinct modules incorporating lecture, discussion, and a practical exercise. Each module focuses on a key component of disaster preparedness, such as Culture of Preparedness, Integrated Partnerships, Organizing for Success, Crisis Communications, etc. Within the various modules are opportunities for group interaction and discussion. The final module of the course is designed to provide the participants the opportunity to develop an action plan or to-do list for follow-up consideration and action.

The practical exercise consists of an expanding incident, designed specifically to address the local community's needs or concerns. Participants are provided information and periodic updates, after which they are given a list of questions to consider and discuss. Through these updates, the incident builds upon itself until it reaches a mass casualty/catastrophic level, thereby overwhelming the normal capabilities of the local jurisdiction and challenging the participants to consider their local policies, resources, and limitations.

This workshop provides a unique opportunity for local or regional executives to share strategies and coordinate plans for emergency preparedness and response. This workshop is an effective process for discussing executive-level issues with leaders from the agencies involved in all levels of the emergency management structure.

Overview: The Reno Police Training Officer (PTO) model is based on the teaching principles of Problem-Based Learning (PBL) and emphasizes the need for the PTO to function primarily as a trainer rather than as an evaluator. PBL is firmly established in the fields of medicine and education, where it is used to facilitate the transfer of knowledge. Similarly, in policing, recruits need to learn much more than just laws and police procedures. They must also understand how to transfer their academy knowledge effectively when dealing with individuals and issues within a community. As demands on police continue to increase, agencies must provide officers with the resources and the training necessary to fulfill their expanded role. This approach will help police recruits think about their roles and responsibilities as they approach specific problems in their daily work. Problem solving is an integral part of police work and requires a creative and flexible method of thinking.

The PBL model encourages flexibility and creativity and this training model is designed to emphasize community -oriented policing principles and leadership development and train new recruits to be problem-solvers as they enter the field. This model is adaptable to any discipline within the criminal justice system (Corrections, P & P, etc.).

Cost: Free. Lunch provided to all.

Instructors: Capt. Jim Anglemier and Lt. Tami Atkinson

Overview: The Stress First Aid has been designed to reduce the risk for stress reactions in law enforcement personnel. This class has been developed specifically for law enforcement personnel by the National Center on Post-Traumatic Stress and is based on the Combat & Operational Stress First Aid (COSFA) class used by the United States Marine Corps and the United States Navy. It recognizes quickly those individuals who are reacting to a wide range of stressors in their work and personal lives, and are in need of interventions to promote healing. Stress First Aid offers a spectrum of one-on-one or group interventions to ensure safety, reduce the risk for more severe stress reactions and to promote recovery. Stress First Aid monitors the progress of recovery to ensure return to full function and well-being. Stress First Aid bridges individuals to higher levels of care as needed. Stress First Aid training discusses the principles of peer teams in public safety and how they can be organized to promote healing. This class in not meant to replace CISD training classes or programs but to be used as an additional or alternative resource.

Note: Those attending the class should have the ability to provide training as this is not an instructor development course. The first day of the class will present the new course and related materials and attendees will be asked to deliver portions of the class on the second day of the training.

Cost: $1,250.00 per student

Instructors: Course Designer: Dr. Mike Shertz MD/18D

Overview: Decrease Preventable Officer/Tactical Operator Deaths

TCCC launched a total reassessment of practices with one common goal: Decrease Preventable Combat Death at the point of wounding. These new strategies based on historical wounding patterns in combat also bear a particular relevance to the operators of Tactical Law Enforcement who share many operational parallels with their military counterparts.

Instead of the civilian-based approaches of the past, integrated strategies specific to combat realities continue to emerge. Compared to standard pre-hospital treatment modalities, which are fundamentally based on blunt trauma, TCCC distinguishes itself from the norm by focusing primarily on the intrinsic tactical variables of penetrating trauma compounded by prolonged evacuation times.

Today, TCCC has become the standard of care for the tactical management of combat casualties within the Department of Defense and is the sole standard of care dually endorsed by both the American College of Surgeons and the National Association of EMT's for casualty management in tactical environments.

TCCC is built around three definitive phases of casualty care:

Care Under Fire:

Care rendered at the scene of the injury while both the medic and the casualty are under hostile fire. Available medical equipment is limited to that carried by each operator and the medic.

Tactical Field Care:

Care rendered once the casualty is no longer under effective hostile fire. Medical equipment is still limited to that carried into the field by mission personnel. Time prior to evacuation may range from a few minutes to many hours.

Tactical Evacuation Care (TACEVAC):

TCCC

3/13-3/17/2017

Class Title: Knight Defense 48-hour Tactical Combat Casualty Care Course (TCCC)

Care rendered while the casualty is evacuated to a higher echelon of care. Any additional personnel and medical equipment pre-staged in these assets will be available during this phase.

Topics will include, but are not limited to:
*Wounding patterns seen in tactical operations
*Care priorities during the care under fire, tactical field care, and casualty evacuation phases
*Hemorrhage control options - tourniquets, wound packing, and hemostatic agents/ dressings
*Airway management positioning, airway adjuncts (nasal pharyngeal, King LT), surgical airways
*Management of penetrating chest trauma - needle decompression, occlusive dressings
*Proper use of intravenous / intraosseous access, appropriate administration of Hextend and IV fluid
*Casualty movement - manual carries, drags, evacuation with Talon II and Skedco litters
*Role of pain management and antibiotics in a tactical environment

Prerequisites: Active law enforcement, military, military contractor, or firefighter ID. This course was designed to an EMT level education so it is recommended that all students have some type of EMS first responder level training prior to attending.

Overview: Suicide prevention for law enforcement, corrections, probation and parole

Participants will gain knowledge of the significance of suicide within the general population, and how risk factors also apply to people in the law enforcement profession. In addition, participants will gain knowledge of suicide specific to an offender population, as well as an understanding of how to effectively work with suicidal people to reduce risk. This training is based off of the recommendations of the US Department of Justice, as well as suicide prevention experts in corrections, and the most current research on suicide.

Presenters: Jason Robinson works as a trainer for Criminogenic Solutions LLC and as a Mental Health Consultant for Multnomah County Corrections Health. Prior to working in the Multnomah County Jail system he worked as a mental health specialist in a co-occurring disorders program in the Oregon Department of Corrections. He has a Masters in Counseling from George Fox University, is a certified drug and alcohol counselor in the state of Oregon, and a certified Master Addiction Counselor. He regularly facilitates trainings for corrections and health care staff for Multnomah County on a variety of topics.

Instructors: Dr. Olivia Johnson

Overview: Dr. Olivia Johnson holds a master's in Criminology and Criminal Justice from the University of Missouri and a doctorate in Organizational Leadership Management from the University of Phoenix. She is a veteran of the US Air Force and a former police officer; she collaborates with several law enforcement publications and is the Peer Support columnist for PoliceOne.com.

Overview: This one-day (8-hour) class is specifically designed for first responders regardless of rank. Training is readily available for addressing safety from an armed assailant standpoint or house fires, but training stops short of addressing safety from a wellness standpoint. Trained first responders are more confident, competent and capable when aware of all the dangers of the job. This course is about personal empowerment - it is about surviving and thriving.

What you will learn:

Anger management techniques, stress management techniques, stress recognition in self/peers, cultural influences on your health, maintaining a healthy heart, knowing when and how to ask for help, talking with healthcare providers

Overview: The Thin Blue Lifeline: Tactical Verbal De-escalation of People Experiencing A Mental Health Crisis

Because officers have to protect their own safety as well as the safety of others, they often have limited time in which to establish a communication mode that minimizes the risk of violence. Agitated individuals can often be directed away from violence by specific communication skills. Verbal de-escalation techniques are geared to "set up" those being contained so that physical control techniques are enhanced, if they become necessary. When the public is witness to successful verbal de-escalation, they better understand and respect the challenges facing officers, which contributes to future officer safety.

Presenter: Ellis Amdur, M.A., Edgework founder, received his B.A. in psychology from Yale University in 1974, and his M.A. in psychology from Seattle University in 1990.
He is both a National Certified Counselor and a State Certified Child Mental Health Specialist. Mr. Amdur has worked in the field of crisis intervention since 1988. He is one of the most prominent trainers in the Pacific Northwest on verbal de-escalation of aggressive and mentally ill individuals. His work focuses on communication specific for first responders to calm and control people manifesting mental illness and emotional disturbance, particularly those who are exhibiting potentially dangerous behaviors.

Overview: Everything on the Line: Calming and De-escalation of Aggressive & Mentally Ill Individuals on the Phone

Because emergency calltakers must focus, first and foremost on the safety of citizens and first responders, they often have limited time in which to establish a communication mode that minimizes the risk of violence. Furthermore, if they are not able to calm down the caller, vital information may be missed or misinterpreted. Agitated individuals can often be directed away from chaos by specific communication skills. Successful verbal de-escalation also sets a precedent with emotionally disturbed people who are likely to frequently call 911. At the next call, they are more likely to have an expectation that they will be talked down.

Successful verbal de-escalation also sets a precedent with emotionally disturbed inmates who are likely to have many such events while in custody. At the next incident, they are more likely to have an expectation that they will be talked down. Therefore, at the sight of correctional officers, they are often more cooperative.

Presenter:Ellis Amdur, M.A., Edgework founder, received his B.A. in psychology from Yale University in 1974, and his M.A. in psychology from Seattle University in 1990. He is both a National Certified Counselor and a State Certified Child Mental Health Specialist. Mr. Amdur has worked in the field of crisis intervention since 1988. He is one of the most prominent trainers in the Pacific Northwest on verbal de-escalation of aggressive and mentally ill individuals. His work focuses on communication specific for first responders to calm and control people manifesting mental illness and emotional disturbance, particularly those who are exhibiting potentially dangerous behaviors.

Overview: Safe Behind Bars: Tactical Verbal De-escalation of Aggressive and Emotionally Disturbed Individuals

Because correctional officers and other jail staff must protect their own safety as well as the safety of others, including inmates, they often have limited time in which to establish a communication mode that minimizes the risk of violence.
Agitated individuals can often be directed away from violence by specific communication skills.

Overview: The Thin Blue Lifeline: Tactical Verbal De-escalation of People Experiencing A Mental Health Crisis

Because officers have to protect their own safety as well as the safety of others, they often have limited time in which to establish a communication mode that minimizes the risk of violence. Agitated individuals can often be directed away from violence by specific communication skills. Verbal de-escalation techniques are geared to "set up" those being contained so that physical control techniques are enhanced, if they become necessary. When the public is witness to successful verbal de-escalation, they better understand and respect the challenges facing officers, which contributes to future officer safety.
