New Lead-Based Paint Laws

Over the past several years, information on the dangers of lead (to young children especially) became an important area for the federal government to address. It appeared that the primary cause of lead poisoning is in the dust created by renovation work. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) passed laws that become effective this spring. States were permitted to apply to the EPA to administer the program.

Understanding the Federal Regulation

On April 22, 2010, federal law (EPA) required contractors and business that renovate (remodel, repair, or work on) older homes and some other buildings (also known as target housing and child-occupied facilities) were required to comply with the new Lead-Based Paint (LBP) licensing regulations. This is referred to as the Renovation, Repair and Painting (RRP) program.

Understanding Oregon Law

In 2009, the Oregon State Legislature passed HB 2134 (Oregon law that mandates a Renovation, Repair and Painting (RRP) program) to complement federal law in anticipation of receiving authorization to administer the program. It would be administered jointly by the Construction Contractors Board (CCB) and the Department of Human Services (DHS).

On May 3, 2010, Oregon received the federal authorization needed to administer and enforce the federal program at the state level.

Construction contractors are now licensed by the CCB. DHS will certify "firms". A firm is a business not required to have CCB licenses. (Example: school districts and their employees that perform the work,)

DHS also approves the RRP training providers. Standards of Practice for lead-based paint renovation are found in DHS administrative rules.

CCB Licensees: Certified LBP Renovation Contractor License (LBPR)

In Oregon, construction contractors obtain the Certified LBP Renovation Contractor License (LBPR) through the CCB.

To qualify for the LBPR, an owner or employee of a CCB licensed business must take the required Renovation, Repair and Painting (RRP) training and receive a completion certificate. The contractor submits a copy of the completion certificate along with the required application and fee to the CCB. The license fee is $50 and is good for one year. A business may renew its license annually for $50.

Businesses not required to have a CCB license (for example school districts) should contact the Department of Human Services for information on obtaining a firm license. The application is available on the CCB website:

www.ccbcd.ccb.state.or.us/WebPDF/CCB/Lead%20Based%20Paint/LBPR%20application.pdf

About RRP training

The Renovation, Repair and Painting (RRP) training is an 8-hour course that a business owner or employee takes to become a Certified Renovator. Upon completion of the course, the individual receives a course completion certificate. The RRP course completion certificate is valid for five years.

For an RRP course to qualify for CCB's Certified LBP Renovation License, it must be offered by a training provider accredited by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) or the Oregon Department of Human Services, Health Division. CCB does not accredit or approve training providers for RRP training.

Contractors can find an accredited RRP provider at the link below:

www.oregon.gov/DHS/ph/leadpaint/RRPTraining.shtml.

What is "target housing" and "child-occupied facilities"

"Target housing" is housing built before 1978. "Child-occupied facilities" are buildings, or parts of buildings, used by the same child or children aged 6 or younger that were built before 1978. Structures like day care facilities and preschools are child-occupied facilities.

What is "renovation"

A contractor performs "renovation" when it modifies any existing painted surface. Some examples are:

- Scraping or sanding
- Removing plumbing
- Replacing windows
- Doing weatherization

“Renovation” does not include minor repair and maintenance. “Minor repair and maintenance” is repair or maintenance that disrupts:

- 6 square feet or less of an interior painted surface; or
- 20 square feet or less of an exterior painted surface.

Any window installation, regardless of size, is not minor repair and maintenance.

State Laws

The CCB and Department of Human Services share the implementation of these new regulations. State laws governing LBP renovation licensing can be found in ORS 701.505 to 701.520 and OAR 812-007-0300 to 812-007-0374 (CCB) . State laws governing lead-based paint practices and training can be found in ORS 431.917 to 431.922 and OAR 333-070-0075 to 333-070-0160 (Department of Human Services /Health Division).

Unlocking the New Locksmith Regulations

As of July 1, 2010, individuals who perform locksmith work in Oregon—unless exempt—must be certified with the Construction Contractors Board (CCB). In addition to the individual certification, businesses offering locksmith services must have a CCB license.

A locksmith is defined as anyone who services, installs, repairs, rebuilds, rekeys, repins or adjusts locks, hardware peripheral to locks, safes, vaults, safe deposit boxes, mechanical or electronic security systems.

The law provides certain exemptions from the certification requirement, such as:

- Tow truck drivers performing work for a certified towing business;
- A person who duplicates keys at a fixed location as long as the person doesn't offer other locksmith services;
- A licensed construction contractor (and the employees) acting within the scope of the CCB license if they are not holding out as a locksmith provider.

For a complete list of exemptions, visit the CCB website.

Certification

CCB's locksmith certification process is an online process and allows an individual to:

- Complete the application,
- Take the test,
- Submit criminal history information,
- Request the certification, and
- Pay the required fees.

The total cost for application, testing and the initial two-year certification is $180. A two –year renewal will be $60. The CCB website can provide locksmiths with information on the certification. The Locksmith webpage is found at: www.oregon.gov/CCB/locksmith.shtml

Information about obtaining a CCB license is found at http://www.oregon.gov/CCB/Licensing_I.shtml or call 503-378-4621.

Workers' Comp Insurance Now Required of all Commercial Contractors

If you are a commercial contractor who previously did not need workers' compensation insurance, you must now purchase workers' compensation insurance by July 1, 2010 as requirement for your CCB license.

For information on how to obtain workers compensation insurance you may contact The Small Business Ombudsman for Workers Compensation by calling 503-378-4209 or you can e-mail your questions to jan.l.bissell@state.or.us or david.waki@state.or.us.

Worker's Compensation Division offers some suggestions for obtaining insurance:

SAIF Corporation has developed an underwritten workers' compensation insurance program in response to the new mandate. You may contact SAIF's Service Center toll free at 888-598-5880 or by email, servicecenter@saif.com. Or you may contact your local insurance agent. Information is also available on SAIF's website: www.saif.com. SAIF is not required to accept every contractor who applies for coverage.

If you cannot find coverage with SAIF or another voluntary market insurer, you are eligible for coverage in the Workers' Compensation Insurance Plan, Oregon's assigned risk plan. You must have proof that one insurance company has declined to provide coverage. It will be necessary to complete an assigned risk plan application. Your application to the declining insurer cannot be reused.

You should know that each application to the assigned risk plan enters into the Voluntary Coverage Assistance Program (VCAP), which attempts to match employers with participating voluntary market insurers. You may receive a voluntary offer from this plan usually at premium less than the assigned risk plan. If your application does not qualify for voluntary market coverage, you will be assigned to a plan insurance carrier. Oregon has three assigned risk plan carriers. They are SAIF, Liberty Northwest, and Travelers Indemnity.

Ask your agent or broker for help in completing a new application to apply for coverage in the assigned risk plan. You or your agent should submit a new application using one of the options below:

- (1) RMAPS Online Application Service – You or your agent or broker can enter ACORD 130/133 application information online. The National Council on Compensation Insurance (NCCI) provides this free electronic service to submit business in the state-approved workers' compensation insurance plan. Contact the NCCI customer service center toll-free at 800-NCCI 1-2-3 (800-622-4123) for access. NCCI also has a Web site at www.ncci.com.
- (2) Mail submission - You or your agent or broker may continue to submit hard copies of the ACORD 130 and ACORD 133 forms to the address below:

NCCI, Inc.- Oregon
P.O. Box 74619
Chicago, IL 60675-4619
- (3) Telephone submission - You or your agent or broker can use NCCI's toll-free number (800-NCCI 1-2-3) to submit an application by providing the ACORD 130 and ACORD 133 application information over the phone to an NCCI account analyst.

If you need information relating to classification codes, rates, experience modification factors, etc., please contact the NCCI Customer Service Center toll-free at 800-NCCI 1-2-3 (800-622-4123).

You can find additional information about this law and who is required to purchase workers' compensation insurance by calling the Construction Contractors Board at 503-378-4621 or visiting their Web site at www.oregon.gov/CCB.

Mercury Thermostats Annual Notification ORS 701.550

(The Construction Contractors Board provides this annual notification in compliance with ORS 701.550)

It is against the law for any person to install a thermostat containing mercury in commercial or residential buildings. This rule does not prohibit the installation of thermostats containing mercury on industrial equipment used for safety controls. (ORS 455.355) (OAR 918-440-0510)

The 2001 Oregon Legislature passed The Oregon Mercury Reduction Act which phased out the use of mercury in certain consumer products for which there are readily available alternatives.

All Contractors Must be Properly Endorsed

As of July 1, 2010, all contractors must be properly endorsed as a residential contractor, commercial contractor or both.

In 2007, laws were passed separating the licensing system for residential and commercial construction contractors.

New contractors were required to choose an endorsement beginning July 1, 2008 and most existing contractors were transitioned into the new endorsement system during their renewal.

With the transition period coming to an end, all construction contractors must be properly endorsed for the type of structure(s) they perform work on.

Nearly all CCB licensees have been transitioned to the new licensing system. However, there are a small number of contractors that have not chosen an endorsement. The CCB sent letters to these businesses along with an endorsement change form.

Contractors that fail to make the change, or contractors working on a structure without the proper endorsement, put their business at risk. Violations could result in a civil penalty of up to $5,000.

For information on choosing endorsements, visit the CCB website by clicking on the following link:

www.oregon.gov/CCB/Endorsements.shtml

New Law Requires Removal of Uncertified Woodstoves When Selling a Home

The information below was provided by the Oregon Department of Environmental Quality

Beginning August 1, 2010, anyone selling a home with an old, uncertified woodstove will be required to remove and destroy this device. The 2009 Oregon Legislature signed Senate Bill 102 into law requiring the removal of any uncertified woodstove from a home when it is sold. This law is part of a program to help protect Oregonians from uncontrolled wood smoke.

Residential wood burning is a significant source of air pollution, including fine particulate and air toxics.

For more information about this requirement (including a Frequently Asked Questions page), please visit www.deq.state.or.us/aq/burning/woodstoves/heatSmart.htm.

CCB Closures Due to Furlough Days

The current recession has reduced state revenues, and has forced the Legislature to make deep cuts in agency budgets. Coping with these cuts requires closing most state offices and facilities on the days listed below. State workers affected by the closures will take unpaid furloughs on those days. We apologize for any inconvenience these closures might cause and look forward to restoration of a full work schedule for all state agencies when the economy improves.

The Oregon Construction Contractors Board (CCB) will be closed on the required furlough days. A total of ten specific days during the biennium were mandated and the agency has already observed five. The upcoming closure days are:

Civil Penalties Issued April 01, 2010 - June 30, 2010

The Oregon Construction Contractors Board (CCB) recently announced final orders assessing civil penalties issued to Oregon contractors for violation of the Construction Contractors Law (ORS 701). Oregon law requires all construction contractors to be licensed with the CCB before they advertise, bid on, or perform construction, remodeling, or repair work.

The CCB issued 412 penalties between April 01, 2010 and June 30, 2010. Contractors receiving penalties include (see Violations Key).
