RE: Government-to-Government Report

I am pleased to transmit the department's (DLCD) response to the legislative directive under ORS 182.162-182.168 (SB 770) to issue report on agency activities under the government-to-government relations, and on other contacts and issues encountered since the department issued last year's report on January 14, 2004.

Major Highlights for 2004:

- ✓ Former state legislator, Lane Shetterly, appointed as DLCD's new director.
- ✓ Support is growing for the Governor's recommended budget to include a 30-year review of Oregon's Land Use Planning System.
- ✓ The Land Conservation and Development Commission (LCDC) held an all time record of five roundtable discussions in 2004, conducted around the state, to hear from local governments and tribal representatives.
- ✓ DLCD assigns Gary Fish, as backup to the agency's key contact, to provide additional assistance on tribal matters.
- ✓ DLCD and the state prepare for Ballot Measure 37 claims.

Relationship of DLCD with Indian Tribes (ORS 182.162-182.168, SB 770): These statutes require state agencies that work with tribal governments to submit reports that address the factors under (a) through (f). Each of the factors are listed below, along with DLCD's response:

(a) The policy the state agency adopted under ORS 182.164.

DLCD Response to Subsection (a)

ORS 182.164 directs DLCD to develop and implement a policy that:

- Identifies agency staff responsible for developing and implementing agency programs that

- affect the tribes;
- Establishes a process to identify agency programs that affect tribes;
 - Promotes communication between DLCD and tribes;
 - Promotes positive government-to-government relations; and
 - Establishes a method of notifying agency staff of the statutory provisions and agency policy.

The department's report issued for 2002 lays out the agency's policy to carryout SB 770. DLCD's strategic plan includes the very elements that SB 770 envisioned for an agency policy. Please refer to our 2002 Annual Report, located on our website, under Relations with Tribes.

(b) The name of individuals in the state agency who are responsible for development and implementing programs of the state agency that affect tribes.

DLCD Response to Subsection (b)

DLCD has had a specific contact for tribal matters since the mid-1980s.

The agency's tribal contacts are responsible for assuring that the agency is kept apprised of activities that may be of interest to the tribes, to provide appropriate tribal contacts and assure that the tribes are informed of agency activities. Good two-way communications have resulted from these efforts.

Through comprehensive plans and zoning (approved by the state) local governments (cities and counties) are responsible for carrying out the land use planning program. Tribal lands are not subject to state and local land use laws. However, these laws sometimes affect the use of tribal lands. The challenge under SB 770 for DLCD will be to continue to promote a minimal level of service to foster government-to-government relations between the tribes and local governments.

(c) The process the state agency established to identify the programs of the state agency that affect tribes.

DLCD Response to Subsection (c)

The process DLCD has used to inform the tribes of agency programs that affect the tribes is to participate in three of the cluster groups established in 1996 under Executive Order 96-30. DLCD has also been available to meet with the tribes one-on-one, although resources are limited, making this continued outreach a challenge. In spite of this challenge, this has proven to be quite successful given the diverse interests of the tribes and the complexity of land use and how it may affect each of the tribes' unique interests. DLCD also maintains an agency web site, which includes a specific section on government-to-government relations that is available to keep the tribal governments informed of agency activities.

(d) The efforts of the state agency to promote communication between the state agency and the tribes and government-to-government relations between the state and tribes.

DLCD Response to Subsection (d)

Including the tribes in stakeholder meetings and activities and working to develop intergovernmental agreements with each of the tribes is a significant step for promoting two-way communication and government-to-government relations. As explained in greater detail below, the agency contacts and others have participated in three of the cluster groups as well as with the tribes directly. Additional discussion on land use with the Legislative Commission on Indian Services has also promoted good communications and government-to-government relations between DLCD and the tribes in the past. DLCD hopes to continue that effort.

Roundtables: As part of implementing SB 770, DLCD has made it a practice, each time LCDC has an out-of-town meeting, to schedule a roundtable discussion with local and tribal governments from the area. The purpose of the roundtables is for the Commission to hear from local and tribal officials in the area on issues of importance to that region. The roundtable also provide a great opportunity for local governments to hear and participate in these discussions and for the Tribes to discuss with the Commission their interest and issues of importance to the Tribes. Economic development was the main topic of discussion at the following roundtables:

On March 12, 2004, the Land Conservation and Development Commission (LCDC) held a roundtable discussion in Hood River with local governments from the region and the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs.

On April 23, 2004, the LCDC held a roundtable discussion in Salem with local governments from the mid-Willamette Valley and the Confederated Tribes of the Grand Ronde Community of Oregon. Part of that discussion resulted in a rulemaking effort that is currently underway by LCDC to address an issue raised by the Tribe relating to sewer service in rural areas.

On June 11, 2004, the LCDC held a roundtable discussion in Klamath Falls with local governments from the region and the Klamath Tribe.

On July 16, 2004, the LCDC held a roundtable discussion in La Grande with local governments from the region, the Burns Paiute Tribe, and the Confederated Tribes of the Umatilla Indian Reservation.

On September 29, 2004, the LCDC held a roundtable discussion in Astoria with local governments from the north coast, the Confederated Tribes of Siletz, and the Confederated Tribes of the Grand Ronde Community of Oregon.

(e) A description of the training required by [ORS 182.166(1)].

DLCD Response to Subsection (e)

See Training below.

(f) The method the state agency established for notifying employees of the state agency of the provisions of ORS 182.162 to 182.168 and the policy the state agency adopts under ORS 182.164.

DLCD Response to Subsection (f)

As described in previous reports, the agency policy under these statutes is the strategic plan and the existing program established under Executive Order 96-30. When new staff that may be working with the tribes is hired, the agency's key contact arranges for their attendance at annual training, briefs them on cluster activities, and provides an overview of the statutory requirements for working with tribal governments on agency activities.

NOTE: For purposes of comparison and continuity the rest of this report follows the format of previous reports under Executive Order 96-30.

Major Areas: The department is continuing to offer growth management and natural resource conservation services to all the tribes and is working with the some of the tribes in several areas. These include the Oregon Coastal Management Program (OCMP), Oregon Ocean Policy Advisory Council, flood plain management services, local government plan amendments, and periodic review. All of these activities are in addition to the work the department's key contacts do with three of the cluster groups under the Executive Order.

Departmental Statement: The Executive Order directed the department to develop an "interest statement," and present it to tribal governments and state agencies at the September 23, 1997 conference on Government-to-Government relations. The department presented its interest statement at the conference, which included an overall objective to:

"Establish, improve and maintain partnerships with Oregon's Indian tribal governments, while seeking to better understand each other, and work cooperatively to identify and address mutual goals and concerns arising from state land use policy that affects tribal interests. To the extent possible, work to have the growth management and resource conservation objectives of both the State and the Tribes compatible with one another. Improve upon or design solutions and programs to help reach these objectives."

The interest statement also includes several points that are of specific interest to the department. As a result of working with tribal governments under the executive order, the department's interests have been refined and clarified. In our 1999 report, the department's statement expressed our support for and commitment to work with Tribal governments in the maintenance and development of cultural and natural resources management programs, land use policies and tribal zoning. In our 2000 report, the department's statement was modified to encourage the tribes to establish policies aimed at preserving Oregon's best agricultural lands when considering land acquisitions and development. Our interest in government-to-government relations at the regional level encourages the participation by tribal governments in regional partnerships. In our 2001 report, the department's statement included recognition of Regional Partnerships and Regional Community Solution Teams as a way to continue and foster improved government-to-government relations. In our 2002 report and based on anticipated budget cuts it was necessary to review the department's interest statement to find ways to achieve these objectives with fewer resources. As a result, DLCD's revised its interest statement in 2003 to include a statement to work with tribal governments and stakeholders to find ways to continue government-to-government relations with fewer resources.

With the passage of Ballot Measure 37 (land use compensation/waiver measure), DLCD needs to find ways to work with the Tribes to assess what effects Measure 37 will have on tribal interests. It may be appropriate to conduct this assessment as part of the 30-year review of land use planning, and/or in conjunction with the work of the economic development, natural resources and cultural resources cluster groups. As a result, DLCD has revised its interest statement to read as follows (new language in italics):

- Facilitate better relations between the tribes and state and local government.
- Establish a notification process to better coordinate and inform tribes, and state and local governments about development projects under consideration, and about long-term economic and community land use objectives. Determine what projects and land use policy issues are of interest to the tribes and keep them informed.
- Continue "Government-to-Government" relations on land use matters at the regional level between state agency contacts in the field (or region), local government planning department staff and tribal administrators within the region, including Regional Partnerships and Regional Community Solutions Teams.
- Work with Tribal governments to share information that supports development and maintenance of resource management plans, development policies and tribal zoning ordinances applicable to lands held in trust. In the interests of state, local and tribal governments, encourage tribal land use policies and zoning to be similar and compatible with Oregon's land use planning system, including policies for preserving Oregon's best agricultural lands.
- Continue to assist local governments and the tribes in natural and cultural resource site protection programs under the statewide planning goals.
- Be accountable for a land use program that is coordinated and consistent with the efforts under the Governor's Coastal Salmon Restoration Initiative, and keep the tribes informed of such actions that may affect tribal interests.
- Work with tribal governments and stakeholders to find ways to continue government-to-government relations with fewer resources.
- In conjunction with the 30-year review of Oregon's land use planning system and/or the work plans of the cluster groups, work with tribal governments to assess what implications Ballot Measure 37 will have on tribal interests.

Solutions and Programs:

Goal 5: A key issue identified by the tribes is the need for the Land Conservation and Development Commission (LCDC) to better protect cultural resources during the land development process. See DLCD's 2003 Report for further discussion of Goal 5.

The agency's tribal contact continues to participate in and discuss Goal 5 and funding concerns with the Cultural Resources Cluster Group. Additional strategies for protecting cultural resources continue to be explored with the cluster, such as education, early consultation with tribes and coordination with state and local government regarding actions involving development and ground disturbing activities. DLCD has provided assistance to tribal governments on obtaining information through the periodic review and plan amendment processes to help assure that tribal interests will be addressed in the update of local comprehensive plans and land use regulations.

A key issue identified last year was the affect that SB 920 (2003) would have on the periodic review process and the ability of the tribes to work with local governments on updating natural and cultural resource elements of local government comprehensive plans. A committee was formed to address periodic review reform, including proposed legislation that may benefit tribal interest in this matter.

Discussed at previous Cluster Group meeting is the proposal to seek legislative amendments to ORS 358.945, 358.953 and 358.235, relating to archaeological permit issuance on private lands. DLCD will work with the State Historic Preservation Office, with the Parks and Recreation Department, and the Tribes on this legislative concept and any other proposed legislation affecting the Tribes.

Fee-to-Trust: DLCD's Coastal-Ocean and Rural Divisions remain involved in the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) fee-to-trust process. BIA routinely sends the Governor notification of pending fee-to-trust transfers. BIA's notice of the consistency of these transfers with the Oregon Coastal Zone Management Program is sent directly to the department. DLCD strives to work cooperatively with the tribes, BIA and affected local governments in addressing the state's interests in these transfers. DLCD also works with "coastal" tribes (Confederated Tribes of Siletz Indians, Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians and the Coquille Indian Tribe) to assure coastal program consistency, including the proper coordination of land use issues. The department's coordination with the tribes usually occurs through a combination of meetings, phone calls, emails and written correspondence.

Coastal: Our Coastal-Ocean Division invites tribal government representatives from the three coastal tribes to participate in periodic meetings held at the coast with local jurisdictions and other coastal program partners. Several of these meetings have occurred since the submittal of DLCD's last Government-to-Government report.

The Department also serves as staff to the Oregon Ocean Policy Advisory Council (OPAC). The membership of OPAC is defined by Legislation and includes one seat for the "coastal" Indian tribes. DLCD works to ensure that a tribal representative is designated for that seat and that any tribal issues raised, in the OPAC setting, are addressed.

Tribal Appointments to Agency Committees: Four new committees were formed last year. Representatives from the Confederated Tribes of the Grand Ronde Community are on the Aggregate Resources Work Group and the Sewer Service to Rural Lands Work Group. A representative from the Coquille Indian Tribe previously served on the Periodic Review Reform Committee. A representative from the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs is currently serving on the Economic Development Planning Advisory Committee (EDPAC) under HB 2011 (2003). All of the groups have been meeting on a regular basis and some involve rulemaking, including the EDPAC who are working with LCDC on proposed administrative rules to address economic development issues.

Training:

Natural Resources Cluster Group: On October 26, 2004, the agency's key contact backup attended the pre-summit cluster meeting at the Wildhorse Resort.

Cultural Resources Cluster Group: On May 25, 2004, the agency's key contact attended the cluster meeting in Chiloquin.

Economic Development Cluster Group: On January 20, at Chinook Winds, and April 28, 2004, at the Wildhorse Resort, the agency's key contact attended the two cluster meetings.

Other Government-to-Government Meetings: On October 27, 2004, the agency's key contact backup, Gary Fish, and director, Lane Shetterly, attended the Annual Conference at the Wildhorse Resort at the Umatilla Indian Reservation.

Cooperation among Departments:

Agency/Tribal Coordination: DLCD's web site (www.lcd@state.or.us), under "Relations with Tribes" continues to provide information on the agency government-to-government program, contacts, DLCD's interest statement, annual reports, and links with other tribal web sites. When notified, DLCD updates its mailing list with changes in tribal administration and tribal councils. Mailing lists are being improved through the use of the state/tribal cluster groups.

Issues and Concerns:

With all the issues raised, the lack of a full-time position to work solely on tribal matters severely limits DLCD's ability to meet with the tribes and/or to follow-up in a timely manner. While increased understanding and coordination between the department and tribes (per SB 770 and EO 96-30) is helping to resolve some issues, the growing number of new tasks, with little or no resources means we are not able to achieve ideal coordination in government-to-government relations. In particular, the agency's key contact had difficulties attending all of the meetings that involved three different cluster groups that the agency is assigned to. However, with the addition of Gary Fish, as the department's new backup to the key contact, it is anticipated that additional resources will be available to help work on tribal matters.

DLCD's involvement to date in tribal affairs has resulted in many questions, and discussions about ways to address various issues and concerns. However, the department continues to be challenged by having seriously limited resources to work on these matters. Key issues/concerns include:

- Limited understanding of the legal complexities associated with fee-to-trust transfers and tribal sovereignty;

- Difficulties with trying to fit tribal projects and planning into the state-local planning framework which does not include a clearly defined role for tribal governments;
- Limited ability to address local-tribal coordination problems in general and certain issues important to local interests such as loss of property taxes, payments for local services, fear of loss of control over trust properties, and impacts on local land use planning;
- Limited finances or other resources to encourage or support tribal planning efforts; and
- A need to establish a standing department role in fee-to-trust proposals occurring outside the coastal zone.
