Vote for your favorite Mocktail recipe to win tickets to the Portland Timbers

PORTLAND, Ore. - The Oregon Liquor Control Commission, Portland Timbers, and el Jimador Tequila are holding a mocktail contest in conjunction with the Oregon Bartenders Guild and KPTV, Fox-12. The public can log on to KPTV.com to vote for their favorite recipe and a chance to win one of several great prizes like four tickets to a Timbers match and an autographed jersey.

A mocktail is a non-alcoholic beverage with party appeal. Twelve mouth-watering recipes have been submitted by the Oregon Distillers Guild for voters to choose the winning drink.

"Mocktails play an important role in any celebration," says OLCC Deputy Director Merle Lindsey. "Whether you're the designated driver, abstaining from alcohol all together, or looking for alternatives to pace yourself through the night; mocktails are a delicious and festive way to enjoy responsibly."

A panel of judges will select the final winner from the top three voter favorites at a viewing party October 25, 2014 when the Timbers play FC Dallas. The winning mocktail will be featured during 2015 Cascadia home matches as the official mocktail of the Portland Timbers.

"Whether you are choosing not to drink or moderating your drinking, the mocktail offers something for everyone. says el Jimador, VP, Director of Corporate Responsibility, Rob Frederick. It's great to be part of a partnership that promotes the benefits as well as the art and craft of these fine beverages."

Updates and contest links will be posted on the agency's website, Facebook, Twitter and Google+.
