

Hot Spots from the State Fire Marshal February 2013

Monthly NFIRS classes available from OSFM

The OSFM is conducting free monthly classes on the National Fire Incident Reporting System (NFIRS). Classes are held the last Tuesday of every month from 1-3 p.m. at the OSFM headquarters in Salem, Oregon. Although each class will focus on a specific NFIRS module, attendees will have the opportunity to ask questions and receive training, or refreshers on any NFIRS topic or issue. You can attend the classes either in person or via webinar. To register, or for more information, call the OSFM Data and Research Unit at 503-934-8250 or email osfm.data@state.or.us.

Safety in public places

With the recent deadly fire in a Brazil nightclub and the upcoming 10th anniversary (February 20th) of the tragic Station nightclub fire in Rhode Island, staying safe in places of public assembly is on the minds of many. The National Fire Protection Association has a free flyer available online that provides safety tips and action items for anyone entering public assembly buildings. Information on the flyer includes actions to take before entering a facility, after entering, and emergency actions during an emergency.

DPSST fire training position open

The Oregon Department of Public Safety Standards and Training is recruiting for a Fire Training Program Coordinator. This is a full-time permanent position in the training division. Applications are accepted until February 27, 2013. The State of Oregon uses an all-electronic application process. Visit the online application and FAQ page for more information.